

IT BOBS UP AGAIN

Special Session Talk Is Again Revived.

Primary Election May Be Solved That Way.

GOV. HOCH FAVORS ONE

May Conclude Legislature Is Way to Get It.

Rumor That Call Will Come Within Sixty Days.

Again the special session of the legislature is looming up on the horizon of political possibility, and there are those who express the belief that the logical outcome of the present situation will be a proclamation from the governor within 60 days.

"If the primary election muddle reaches the place where a majority of the Republican state committee seems to favor a primary, and if the agitation for a primary among the people of the state becomes strong enough, Governor Hoch will assemble the legislature for the purpose of enacting a primary election law. This is the opinion expressed this morning by one of the foremost Republicans of the state.

Other politicians interviewed this morning were inclined to take a similar view of it. One said: "Hoch favors primary law; he also wants to call a special session if he can find a sufficient demand for it. The progress of the primary election agitation during the next few weeks will determine his course."

It seems to be the general idea that if the state central committee seems to be about to order a primary without a state primary law, the people who want to run for office, and who are opposed to the primary without a law, will appeal to the governor to call a special session to enact a law compelling all parties to hold primaries, and providing for the payment of the bills by the public treasury.

It is claimed by some that a special session will commend itself to the people of the state, and not injure the chances of the Republican party, provided the special session enacts a good primary law and then throws in some freight rate regulation. The thing which causes hesitation on the part of the governor in calling a special session would be the expense. It might be a bad thing for the party to put the expense of a special session on the state unless there was a strong popular demand for a session, and some reason to believe that the state senate would "reform" itself.

The fact that the railroads backed down on the 2-cent fare proposition to avoid a special session may indicate that they could not afford to stand by them.

The thing which should probably carry the most weight with the governor against calling a special session is the general unsetting of business conditions that might result from a meeting of the legislature now. The public generally thinks that a session called now would be a gathering of the legislative members. The people can get along without annual sessions and without a session as soon after the regular one as one called now would be. Then there are ways of accomplishing things without legislation—witness the 2-cent fare matter.

Senator Ed Wilkerson of Winfield, who was counted as a member of the "lodge," was in Topeka today. In speaking of the situation, he said: "I do not believe that the Republican committee will call a primary for next year, and I do not think there is any great demand for a primary any way. The people of the state are not very much agitated about that matter. It certainly would be a risky matter to hold a primary without a law to authorize it. Of course, it is possible that the governor might call a special session, but that is a remote possibility."

State Senator George Tucker, another visitor today, who was not a member of the senate "lodge," said: "I favor a primary law covering all offices. If we can hold a primary without a law, we should do it. People might be willing to approve the governor's action in calling a special session to enact such a law, provided he deemed it unwise to try the plan without it."

Governor Hoch was out of town today and no expression from him could be obtained. The talk thus far is largely among the politicians who are interested in the Anthony campaign. The only thing which seems to be certain is that Governor Hoch is not adverse to calling a special session of the legislature if the conditions arise which warrant such action.

Attorney General Jackson returned to Topeka Sunday from his home at Muskogee. He says he has not yet answered Mr. Anthony's letter, and may not give out a copy when he does answer it.

The Fort Scott Monitor says that Grant Hornaday is preparing a plan for a primary in 1908 which will save the expense. The Monitor says:

"Grant Hornaday, candidate for Republican gubernatorial honors, and champion of the primary plan, who is working with Congressman Anthony to bring about a complete system of primary nominations, is now working on a plan which he believes will prove to the people of Kansas that the system will not be expensive. The statement will be ready in a short time. His plan would be for the candidates to meet the expenses of the primary, but he says it will not cost the sum that the present state officers are trying to make believe."

Won't Extend the Mains. The Consumers' Light, Heat and Power company states that it is impossible for them to make the extensions of their gas mains in the 1500 block on West Sixteenth street and the 1600 block on Lane street because the extensions would cost more than the returns warrant. The statement is made in reply to a communication on file from residents living in those two blocks with the city clerk.

Fritz Durein Convicted. Fritz Durein was tried in the district court today on an appeal from the police court for selling liquor and was convicted on the merits. He was fined $100 and costs $15.00. He was a North Topeka negro who had appealed his case, pleaded guilty to the nuisance count.

Wants License Revoked. Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 14.—An attorney of Beatrice today demanded that the state auditor revoke the license of the American Bonding company of Baltimore to do business in Nebraska. A verdict against a saloon man for damages remaining unpaid is the cause. Under the Nebraska statutes a bonding company with unpaid judgments against it can not do business in the state. A hearing will be given the company.

HAS A DARK HORSE.

State Holding Back Mysterious Witness in the Magill Case.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 14.—The Magill murder trial enters its most important stage today when the heavy guns of the state will be turned on Fred H. Magill and his wife and the question of their guilt or innocence will be largely determined.

State Attorney Miller sent telegram to Miss Ida Gandy of Dayton, O., yesterday saying that important developments required her presence there at once. Miss Gandy is a sister of Mrs. Magill, the first wife of Magill, whom he is accused of murdering in order to marry Fay Graham, his girl friend.

With Miss Gandy's testimony supplemented by others, who knew Mrs. Magill's handwriting, the state expects to prove the letters found on Mrs. Magill's dead body were forgeries.

Postmaster Frank Davidson of Clinton and several old neighbors of the Magills also will take the stand. The state is holding back a "dark horse" in the shape of Warren H. Holton of Denver. Holton is the private detective who offered to prove that Fay H. Graham Magill was implicated in the alleged murder by love letters the girl is supposed to have written to him. With Holton is Ben Silverman of Colorado, another mysterious witness. The defense asserts that both of these men are frauds and that their evidence is manufactured.

(There is neither truth, fairness, sense or justice in the advertising of these Sunday shows than they do for advertising the shows for all of the rest of the week," said F. G. Drenning, city attorney, at the morning services of the First Methodist church.

He had swallowed two bunches of laudanum with suicidal intent and left a note stating as a reason financial reverses and the belief that his mind was failing. He said he had intended to kill himself at Coffeyville, Mo., a few days ago, but his nerve had failed. Davidson had operated in southeastern Kansas and Indian Territory. He was 36 years old and left a family. When the body was found he had been dead several hours.

THEY WANT TO KNOW.

Oklahoma's Anxious About Date of Statehood Proclamation.

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 14.—John H. Burford, chief justice of Oklahoma, today addressed a letter to Attorney General Bonaparte, at Washington, asking him to note President Roosevelt that the public interests will be best subserved if he will make a public announcement of the exact date upon which he will sign and issue his proclamation declaring Oklahoma a state. He says this is necessary to prevent confusion in the operation of the courts.

RYAN'S SUCCESSOR.

Frank Pierce Will Become First Assistant to Garfield.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Frank Pierce of Salt Lake City will succeed Thomas Ryan as first assistant secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Ryan's retirement, as already announced, will take place the latter part of this month.

To Stop Railroad Strikes.

Rome, Oct. 14.—A law just promulgated provides that railroad employees shall in future come under the same regulation as employees of the departments of the government. This will make railway men who take part in strikes liable to punishment for misdemeanor.

HE SLOPS OVER.

City Attorney Drenning Makes Wild Statements.

Tells Church People About the Newspapers.

TALK SUNDAY CLOSING

Says That the Papers Are All Biased.

Mass Meeting at the Auditorium Tonight.

"You can't depend upon the newspapers for your information regarding this Sunday theater closing. They are biased and you will have to read between the lines as it were to get at the real facts. There is a good reason for them being biased. They are like a great many other business men. I understand that they get more for the advertising of these Sunday shows than they do for advertising the shows for all of the rest of the week," said F. G. Drenning, city attorney, at the morning services of the First Methodist church.

Mr. Drenning should be more careful of the facts when delivering addresses in the churches if he wants to live down his reputation of permitting his mouth to run away with his judgment.

(There is neither truth, fairness, sense or justice in the advertising of these Sunday shows than they do for advertising the shows for all of the rest of the week," said F. G. Drenning, city attorney, at the morning services of the First Methodist church, and he should be more careful in his utterances as an official holding an important position in city affairs, than in his own words shown himself biased. So far as the State Journal is concerned, it has published the news on this subject as fully as it could secure it, and as well as has been printing daily for many days the facts as they have developed in the present fight in Kansas City against the Sunday theater.

We do not get more for the advertising of Sunday shows than we do for the advertising for any attraction through the week; the rate is just the same and the amount received for advertising or Sunday attractions is far below that received for the week day attractions. The State Journal cares nothing for the amount received for advertising plays which appear here on Sundays. So far as the writer knows, it is a rare thing for any one connected with the State Journal to attend a Sunday theater. We believe that as a rule people who attend the Sunday entertainments are people who do not find the opportunity for attending through the week. A very large number of the shop people in Topeka are too tired after their day's work and "broken down" to attend the Sunday theater.
